One ought,
everyday at least,
to hear a little song,
read a good poem,
see a fine picture,
and if it were possible,
to speak a few reasonable words.

INTRODUCTION

am calling this a genealogy of the GLENN family of Amherst Island. It is an attempt to write down information collected from various sources concerning the Glenn's of Amherst Island.

There are many gaps in the records and, I expect, many mistakes in the information, but I leave it to those who read to fill in the gaps, correct the mistakes, and add to the information as time goes by.

I mention here a few of the many who have helped me compile the information. These include the late Miss Nessie Grogan, Ireland, Harry Glenn, Montreal, Mrs. Nanetta Glenn, Amherst Island, the late Viola Glenn, Hawaii, and my own family and friends. To them all I extend many thanks.

Viola did much research on this project and sent me some of her data, including the item which connects the Glenn family to Robert the Bruce. This piece of history is in the New York City Public Library, and was written by one of the Richmond, Virginia Glenns who were rather social, with judges, lawyers and politicians in the family.

Viola also mentioned meeting Glenns from Pennsylvania, New York State, New York City, and several Southern states. A good looking negro actor from South Carolina had the surname Glenn. In Hawaii, in 1960, five Glenns were listed in the phone book. One was Glenn's Color Service (Camera), and another was Mary Anne Glenn, a fortune teller who gave psycho readings and was married to a Sergeant Glenn. Another was listed as Utah C. Glenn.

We also are interested in Captain John Glenn, America's first astronaut to orbit the earth in a space ship, and who lately has appeared on TV programs. Here in Ontario there is a Glenn who is Principal of Knox College, Toronto, another is Principal of a High School in Ottawa, and there are some near Tamworth, some near Westport and some near Smith's Falls. I have often been asked about my relationship to one or other of them but the connection must be too far back to trace.

With these few words of introduction I hope that you, the reader, may find some interesting facts. I have found many.

EXPLANATION

Part I gives some early historical facts.

Part II deals with the family of our common ancestor, Robert Glenn, of County Down, Ireland.

Part III lists the descendants of Robert's son, Alexander.

Part IV lists the descendants of Robert's son, Hugh.

Part V lists the descendants of Robert's son, Samuel.

The children of each of the above are listed as A, B, C, etc.

The children of A, B, C, etc., are numbered 1, 2, 3, etc.

Their children are listed as (i), (ii), etc.

The children of (i), (ii), etc. are listed as a, b, c, etc.

Their children are again numbered 1, 2, 3, etc., and their children as (i), (ii), etc.

PART I

The Glens are an ancient family of Norman extraction descending from the Norman house of l'Estrange. The first of the house of l'Estrange is said to be Guy, the younger son of the Duke of Brettaign. It was from Shropshire, England, near Shrewsbury, where they bore the name of Nase or de Ness from Ness or Ness Strange in Shrewsbury, that the originators of the Glens migrated to Scotland.

This de Ness assumed the name of de la Glen which was later shortened to de Glen, then Glen, from the lordship of Glen in Renfrewshire.

Robert de Glen married Margaret, youngest daughter of Robert the Bruce. Hence all the Glens of Bar, Renfrewshire, are of Royal Lineage. Biographers differ as to whether or not Margaret was the legitimate daughter of the Bruce. However, Robert de le Glen was one of those who carried the heart of Bruce to the Holy Land. The Glens of Bar possessed the sword of Bruce which was carried to Ireland in 1606 by a descendant. Princess Margaret remarried William, 5th Earl of Sutherland.

The children of Robert and Margaret Glen were William, Robert and John.

William inherited, then his son, Paul.

Robert entered Holy Orders.

John succeeded William's son, Paul.

John's son, William, inherited.

His issue were Robert, John, William and James.

James, the heir, was killed at Acum.

His son, James, inherited.

His issue were James, William, Alexander, Archibald, David and Mary.

James was killed at Kirkafield. Then William and Archibald succeeded, in turn, to the estate.

Archibald's sons were Thomas, who died in Glasgow in 1635, and David, who was of Glenlora, adjoining Bar.

Bar Castle, over the entrance of which is carried, "For God and for my Queen", went to the Hamiltons in 1629.

In 1606, James Hamilton and Hugh Montgomery, having secured grants of land in Ulster, Ireland, set out to colonize same. Among those accompanying them were the Rev. Patrick Hamilton of Dunlap near Bar, husband of Elizabeth Glen, daughter of David of Glenlora, and Thomas Boyd of Picton, husband of Isabel Glen, daughter of William of Bar; also James and John Glen, younger sons of David of Glenlora.

These brothers were the ancestors of most of those bearing this surname in Ireland. On migrating to America the majority of them added another "n" to their name.

James and John Glen leased land from the Rev. Patrick Hamilton at East Holyrood in Barony of Castlereagh, County Down, Ireland. James was living on this land November 15, 1618.

John moved with his family from Down to Lifford, County Donegal. Robert, who was sheriff and mayor of Waterford, died in 1767, and was likely a descendant of James.

But William Glen of Machreymonoch, Ballywillen, County Down, died in 1730, leaving heirs.

No further data so far has been obtained about these early families.

PART II

The Glenn family of Amherst Island descended from the family of Robert Glenn of County Down, Ireland.

Robert Glenn married Nessie Johnston (or Johnson) and he had 4 sons and 1 daughter by his first wife.

I. Alexander, the oldest, remained in Northern Ireland, but some of his family came to Canada.

II. Hugh, born 1796, died 1891, came to Canada. His date of emigration is uncertain. He was married in Canada to Eliza Scott, born 1801, by Rev. John Ham, on Nov. 2, 1837. Witnesses were John Scott and Samuel Glenn. He went to Kansas, U.S.A. in 1871. His wife died one year later. It is said that he often visited the Island.

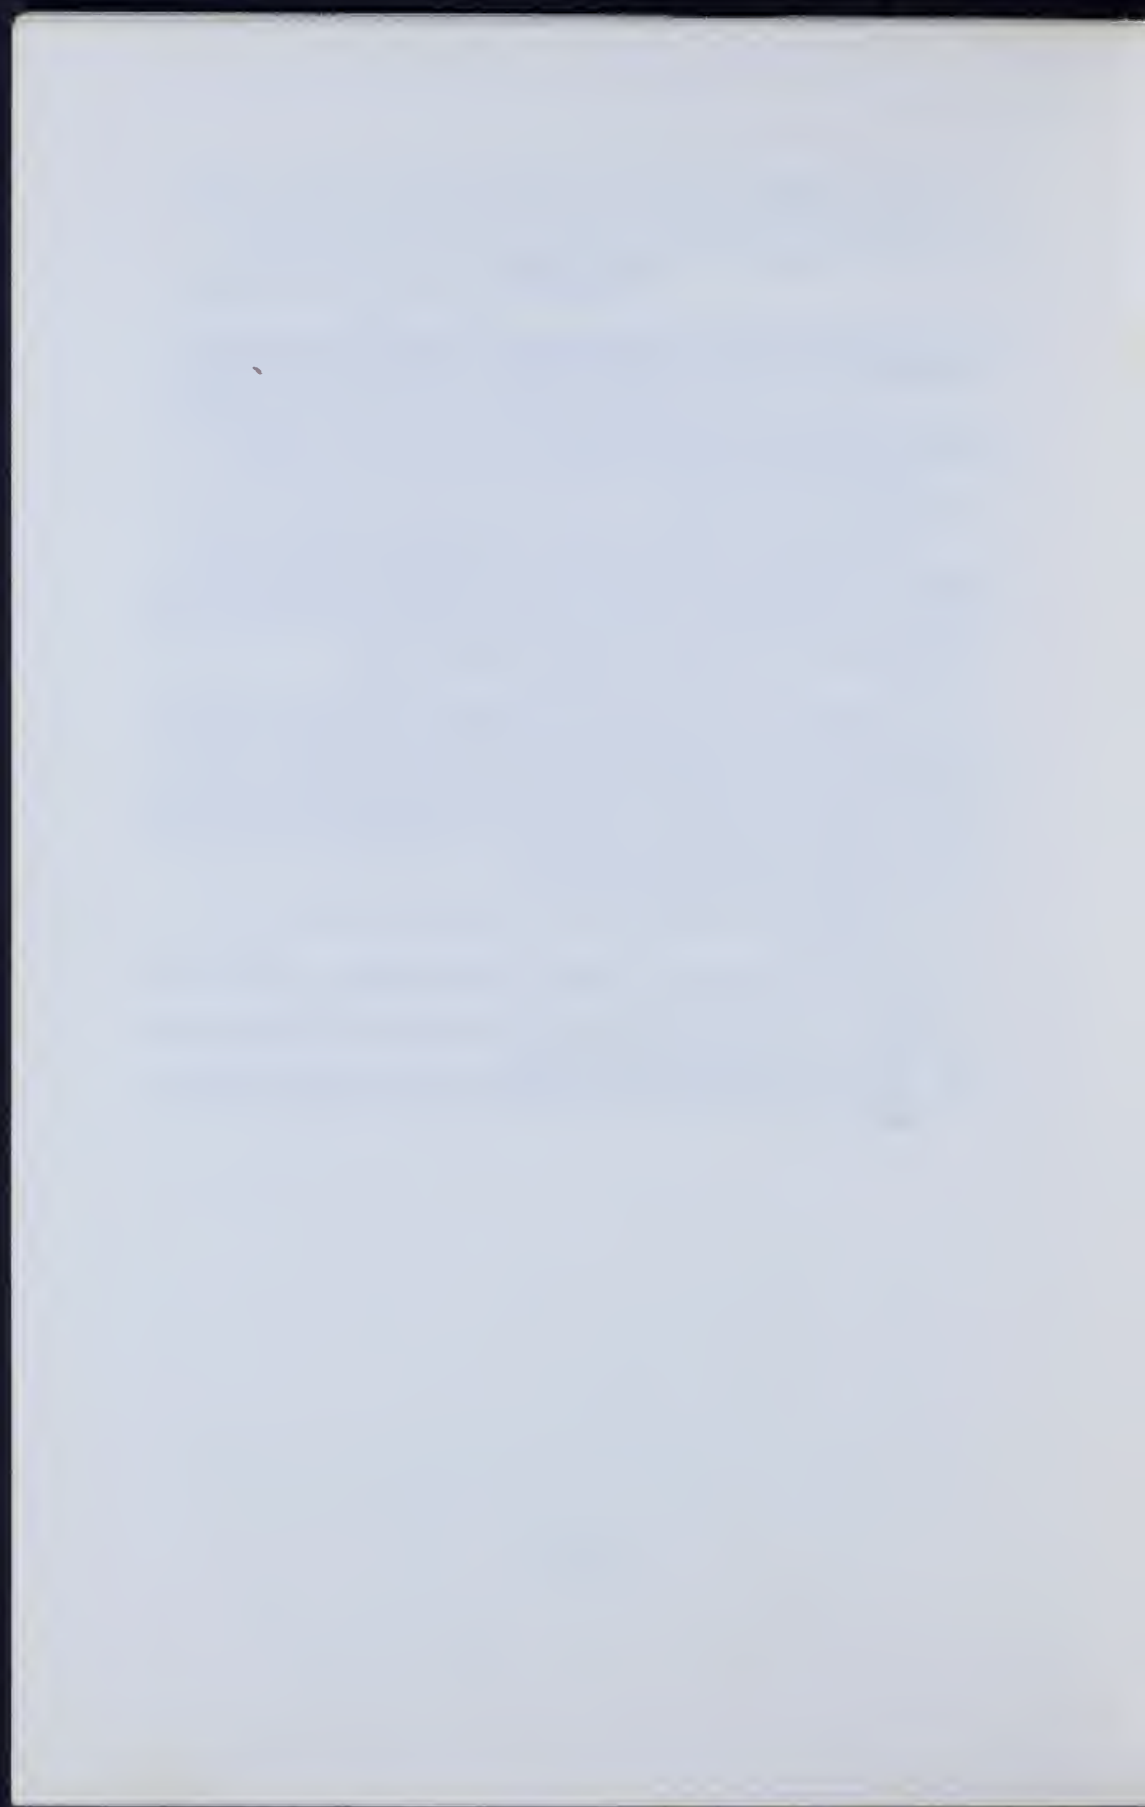

III. Samuel, born 1810, died 1888, emigrated to Amherst Island, Canada, in 1827. He married Rose Ann Farley, Ernesttown, born 1810, in County Longford, Ireland. She died 1889. They settled on Amherst Island on Con. 3. The census of 1851 in the Archives, Ottawa, says Con. 2, lot 49, 100 acres. He was a veteran of the Rebellion of 1837, being listed in the paymaster's book kept by Robert Burleigh. Both are buried in Glenwood Cemetery, Amherst Island.

IV. William, the youngest, went to Scotland and there is no further record of him.

V. Mary, the daughter, married a Major Hamilton, and they had no family.

Another story mentions Robert, an ocean sailor, unmarried, who often visited a brother on Amherst Island.

NOTE: Most of this information was sent by Miss Nessie Grogan, Belfast, Northern Ireland.

Which of these two Davids is yours?

Incidentally, your letter is confusing. I quote from it:

"that you might be able to help me in my search for background of my great grandmother ^{Ann Glenn}

Her name was Ann Glenn before marrying my ^{great} grandfather, David Girvin on Amherst Island. . . ."

Who was the great grandmother, as noted above?

As to the Glenns, it must be assumed that there is a great deal of haziness re the early members of the family.
There is mention only of Samuel Glenn, and absolutely no reference to a John who came at the same time. This John and Samuel Girvin both lived on Lot 12 So. Side Amherst Island.
Was John the father of Ann?

Dear Madam -

I have spent a number of hours collecting together bits of information having to do with your Girvin-Glen problem. It brings to mind a lack of agreement with your notes on the family.

As a rule, people who write to me for help with their ancestry are very vague. For instance it is usual to say I am looking into the people of my great grandmother, Anne Glen. They usually add no dates (you have). This is of no great help, as there may have been ten Annes who might fit the query.

^{All correct} You have David Girvin, born in Ireland in 1816, came to Canada in 1832, where married Ann Glen & moved to Wawanosh in 1842, dying in 1859. He son of Charles & Rachel Girvin?

On the contrary, I have an obituary of a Charles Girvin, born in 1810, died in 1899, with wife Eliza. According to the obituary, Charles & ~~Rachel~~ Eliza had these children

1. Robert, the eldest, living in Kingston
2. David, a prosperous farmer in Huron County
- 3 Charles } who inherit the home farm on Amber Island.
- 4 Samuel }

My question is this, was the David, the prosperous farmer in Huron County the son of Charles & Eliza or of Charles & Rachel?

Dear Sir:

Mr. A. Phillips Silcox, President of the Ontario Genealogical Society, suggested to me that you might be able to help me in my search for background of my great grandmother.

Her name was Ann Glenn before marrying my grandfather, David Girvin on Amherst Island, no date. They moved to Wawanosh in 1842. David died in 1859, and Ann married A James Trimble, and she died in 1904 at West Wawanosh, and is buried in the Dungannon Cemetery--Ontario.

David was born in Ireland in 1816, and came to Canada in 1832 with his mother, father and 8 other brothers and sisters. They settled on Amherst Island, where his mother and father, Charles and Rachel Girvin are buried.

I have a copy of The Glenn Family of Amherst Island compiled by Eva M. Glenn of Stella, Amherst Island. There is no reference of my Ann Glenn who married David Girvin.

If you can help me in any way, I would be most appreciative, and will gladly pay for your help, your fee.

Very sincerely

Dear Sir:

Thank you for your answer to my letter of November 24 asking for your help in my search for background of my great grandmother, Ann Glenn. I apologize for confusing you by saying she married my grandfather, David Girvin etc--he was my great grandfather.

NB
David Girvin was the son of Charles Girvin and Rachel Carleton Girvin. Charles and Rachel are buried on Amherst Island. Charles was born in 1779, and died Aug 12, 1847. Rachel is buried beside him, but I could not make out any dates, as her headstone is broken and not clear. ^{d. 15 May 1871 aged 91y 6 mo} My David was born Oct, 1816 in Ireland, and died on Feb 5th, 1859 and is buried in Dungannon Cemetary where Ann Glenn Girvin Trimble is buried. My David was uncle to the David who was a prosperous farmer in Huron County, and son of Samuel and Eliza.

Further data on Ann Glenn that I have found since I first wrote to you. Ann was 84 years old when she died in 1904, and she was around 16 years of age when she and David Girvin were married on Amherst Island. She also had a brother William and a sister Jane, who went to the ~~W~~Wawanosh/Dungannon area about the same time that Ann and David went, in 1842.

I am returning your letter to me, to you--with some notes in red pencil. It may be that you mixed the names of Charles/Eliza and Samuel/Eliza.

I realize that there are many names that are the same, and am sorry that I can give you no more information on my Ann Glenn than the above and in my first letter. Do appreciate any further help you can give me. Sincerely Bernice Chaffee

P.S.

In the last paragraph of your letter, you wrote that a John Glenn and a Samuel Girvin who both lived on lot 12 on the south side of Amherst Island. Do you have any date of when John was there?

Some of my data was given to me thru Ernest Girvin, son of David, the prosperous farmer in Huron County. I have data on some of the other Gervins descended from Charles and Rachel, if you ever have any need.

Dear Mrs. Chaffee:

The better the day the better the deed. So, here I am answering your recent letter, like a good christian.

In the course of my 35 years living in Bath, I have had many professional trips to Anherst Island. There is not a house that I have not visited, including homes on the Girvin farms. In one case, I called to see an old lady, Mrs. Cochrane, who had been seized with a 'spell.' She was in bed; two elderly women stood at her side. I proceeded to take her blood pressure. After wrapping the cuff about her arm, I straightened the arm and found a wet cloth in the old lady's hand. I turned to the women, asking why the wet cloth. One, the mother of two trained nurses, replied that it was a cloth soaked in whiskey, adding, with a query, that it was good for anyone having a convulsion, wasn't it? I replied, 'yes, if the whiskey had been swallowed.' That is enough of that garbage!

I wish to add that I have copied all the gravestones on the Island, and that the inscription on the grave of Mrs. Rachel Girvin reads 'died May 15, 1871, aged 91 years, 6 months.'

I assume that you have visited the Island on different occasions, and that you know where the Girvins lived, on lots 13 & 12. John Glen was on lot 10 west half--50 acres. You likely realize that these people did not own their farms, at least at the time of which we are dealing. The Island was originally granted to Sir John Johnson. About 1812 he gave it to his daughter, Mrs. Powes. She, in turn, sold it to the Earl of Mountcashel about 1832, or earlier by a few years. A very few lots had been sold to local families. Most of the farms were leased. Leases ordinarily covered a seven year period. A 100 acre farm on lease required a payment of five pounds per year for the first four ~~year~~ years, then six pounds per year for the remaining three years.

Richard Hitchens was the local agent for the owners for the period 1829 to 1839. His Book of Rentals has been preserved and contains much interesting information. I copied this book a number of years ago. Here is what it has about the Girvins and John Glen:

Charles Girvin, on Nov. 1, 1832, leased Lot 13, 100 acres, for a 5 year period. He paid annual rent, the last being on Oct. 4, 1838, each being 5 pounds.

I suspect that Charles had assumed this lot from someone who had leased it two years before, seeing that his lease only ran for 5 years.

Samuel Girvin, son of Charles, was 22 years of age in 1832, when he leased lot 12, next farm to his father. His lease, dated 17 Dec., 1832, for 100 acres, covered a seven year period. He continued to pay his annual rent until 1839. In 1833 he was allowed ten pounds for a betterment. This means that any improvement, such as a house or other buildings belonged to the lessee, and could be sold by him, in this case, to the owner of the land.

John Glen, on June 1, 1832 or 1833, leased the west half of Lot 10, being 50 acres. At about the same time Hugh Davison leased the east half. I note this as there might have been some relationship between these two families. The fact that, on May 28, 1833, they conjointly paid their rent might signify some relationship. John Glen continued to pay annual rent, the last on Oct. 4, 1833. Incidentally, this John Glen served in the Amherst Island Militia in 1837-8 during the Rebellion. Somewhere among my papers I have a list of these soldiers, but am unable to find it at this time. I mention it, as it might contain the name of your David Girvin. I must find it again.

If there is any connection between your Ann Glen and her siblings William and Jane, and the John Glen who leased Lot 10, proof is lacking. All I can say, at this time, is that there is a strong possibility. I assume that, as there is no further record of John Glen, it is very possible that he and his family may have gone west with his daughter Ann and her husband. Further search in the Wawanosh area might reveal something. It is very strange that the Glen Genealogy makes no mention of John. I must assume that John left the Island so early that many people had forgotten him.

There are several other possible sources of information which have not been probed. The census records of the Island area would be of no use. The first is 1851, which is too late, as your Girvins left in 1842. Still, it might be worth a look, as there might be something on the John Glen family, if some of them remained after 1842. I ordinarily employ an Ottawa man to look in these records for me. He charges $2.50 per hour. A look at Amherst Island census should be no more than 2 hours.

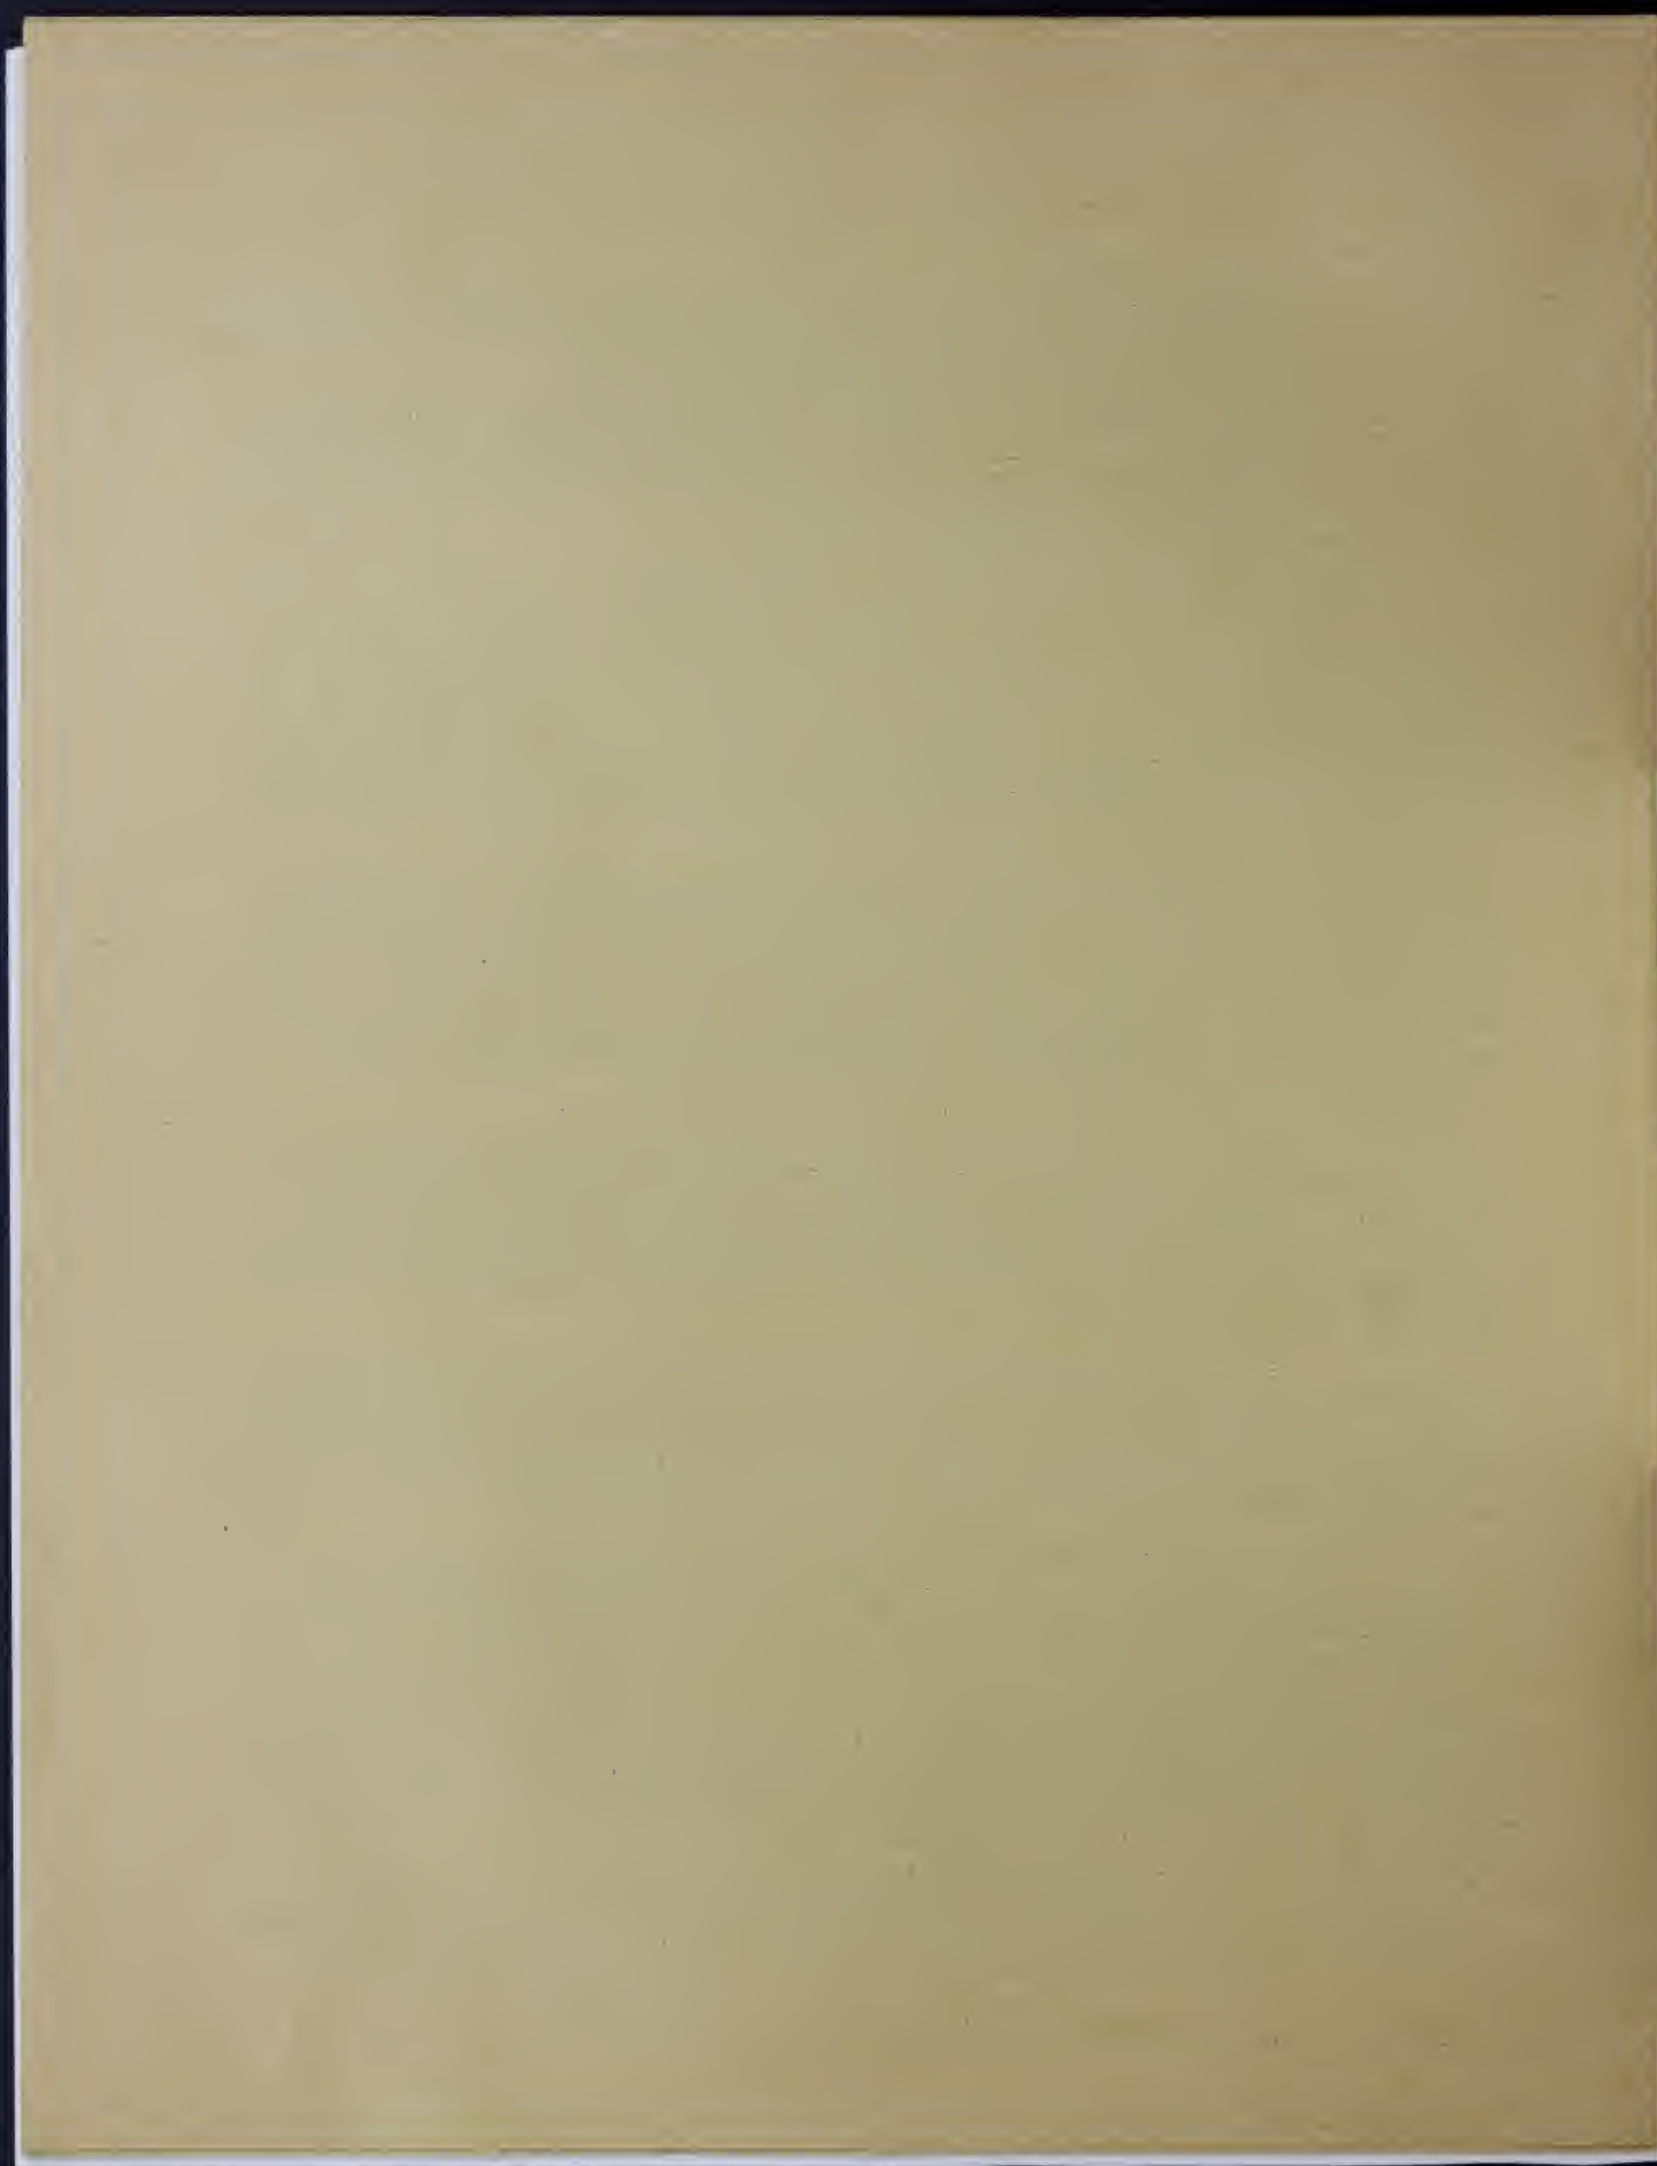

Another angle is Church Records. The Mitchins Book of Rentals tells us that the first church on the Island was under construction in 1833. This was the Church of England. If it was the only church on the Island, many of the marriages and baptisms may have been done there. These records, if such were made, would be in the Synod Office in Kingston. I often go there for such queries.

I assume that the Girvins and Glens were Presbyterian. If so, their weddings & baptisms might be found in their records. I have attempted to phone Robert Cumberland, the son of an early Presbyterian minister on the Island, but he is not home. It may well be that early records are in the manse in Kingston. This should be investigated for possible clues.

And there the matter stands, except for another Island story. Paddy Bill Fleming, an old batheloor, burned to death in his home about thirty years ago. I was called to review the remains which had been placed in a milk can. I asked John Tugwell for his version of the fire. He replied telling me that he went to the fire and tried to get in the front door, failed, so went to the back door. There it was so hot that he couldn't THOLE it. I cut him short, asking him what he had said. In his excitement he replied, "I said THOLE it, damn it." Get out your dictionary and find out what THOLE means. It had me stumped.

If there is anything I can do, please let me know. At the same time, I feel that I have earned about $10.00, if it is agreeable to you.

Sincerely,

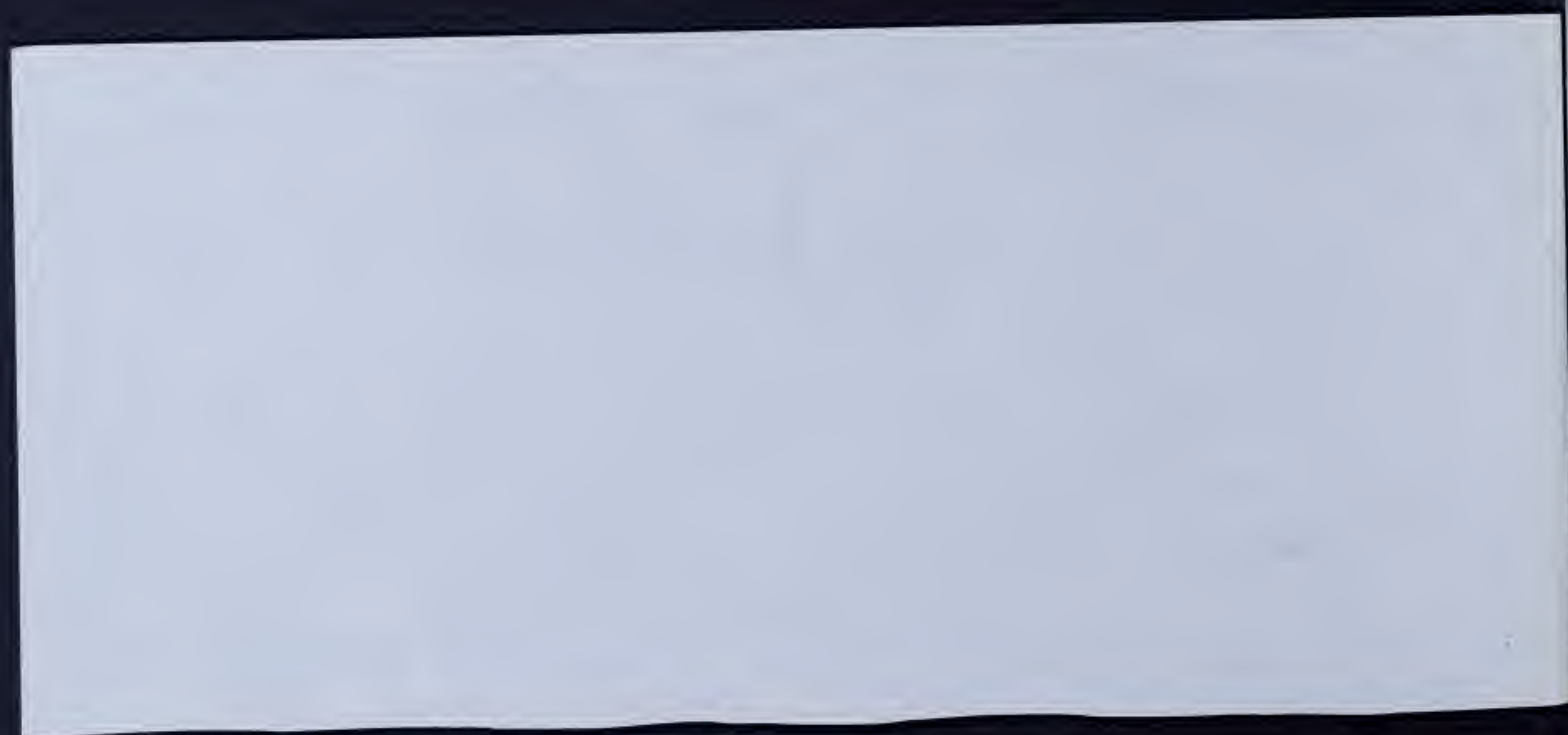

William Allen - 1836-1924
